AT THE THEATERS

Rialto Theater for a week's engagement beginning Sunday next. The program is augmented by the first appearance in Washington of the Weber Male Quartette, one of New York's highest-class organizations of such character, composed of four well-known concert and stage soloists, namely. Sidney Charles, Marloew Jones, Malcolm Barnes and Frederic Thomas Malcolm Barnes and Frederic Thomas. The quartette will give a program of popular and classical num-bers three times daily throughout the Selected subsidiary features and special orchestral numbers will com-plete the bill.

LOEW'S PALACE-"Lady Fingers."

Bert Lytell, the brilliant young Metro screen star, will be the featured player at Loew's Palace Theater next week in "Ladyfingers." The support-ing cast includes Ora Carew, Frank Elliott, Edythe Chapman, DeWitt Jen-nings, Stanley Goethals and many

In this production, Mr. Lytell has the role of a young man who, edu-cated by a notorious crook as a safebreaker, visits the home where he is being sought as the heir and where he plans to ply his criminal calling in total ignorance of the fact that he is heir to the very valuables that he is planning to pilfer.

The management of Loew's Palace, realizing the unusual entertainment values of this splendid production, has arranged to supplement it with a bril-liant array of added screen and musical features.

For the first three days of next week Crandall's Theater will present Conway Tearle in "After Midnight." Mr. Tearle will be seen in a role that is admirably suited to his personality and his talents and will be supported by a specially-selected cast of screen celebrities. The comedy element will be supplied on the bill by Ben Turpin in Mack Sennett's most recent tworeel vehicle for "the handsomest man in pictures." Abbreviated film features and pipe organ accompaniment will complete the program.

On Wednesday and Thursday of next week Frank Mayo will be seen for the first time in "The Shark Master," a drama of thrilling developments in which the star is picturesquely cast. The comedy attraction Sewell Ford farce starring Johnny Hines. For the last two days of the week Mary Pickford will be screened in the stellar role of her famous United Artists production, "Through the Back Door," one of the most delightful vehicles in which sweetheart" ever has been seen.

THE STRAND

Edward Stanisloff. Next week at the Strand Theater will be marked by the reappearance in Washington of Edward Stanisloff and his company of terpsichorean artists in "Dance Creations," a spectacular character dance divertisement featuring a quintette of graceful and charming feminity. Foley and O'Neil, "A Couple of Nifties," known throughout the vaudeville world as two of the most popular entertainers on the boards, are offered as an extra added attraction. Others appearing include Preston and Ysobel in a variety of dances, acrobatics and music; Blanche Boyd and Freddie King, the former seen as "The Chameleon Girl" and the latter giving a number of exclusive song impressions; and Will Fox and Florence Kelly in an amusing diversion "Good-bye Forever." The photodramatic offering will present talented Pauline Frederick in her most recent Robertson-Cole production "The Sting of The Lash." Selected short film features and special orehestral numbers arranged by Arthur J. Manvell will round out

KNICKERBOCKER-The Idle Class." Charles Chaplin will be seen at randall's Knickerbocker Theater next Sunday and Monday in his much heralded new comedy for First National, "The Idle Class," in which he appears in his familiar role of the vagabond-this time an addict of golf —and also as a fashionably dressed and dapper philanderer whose wife places him in many amusing predicaments. "The Idle Class" was written and directed by its star and presents Edna Purviance and Mack Swain in the principal supporting roles. As an added attraction the first two days of the week, Will Rogers also will be screened in his latest production, "A Poor Relation," the appealing story of a struggling inventor whose work among his fellows in the slums eventually enlists the interest of a wealthy On Tuesday and Wednesday, Conway Tearle will be the pictured star of the bill in "After Midnight," his latest Select starring vehicle, which will be followed on Thursday and Friday by Elaine Hammerstein in Select's new production of "Handcuffs or Kisses." On Saturday only, Shirley Mason will be screened in a delightful
